What do the changes in Israel’s government mean for American Jews and Diaspora Jews around the world? How is the uptick in global antisemitism related to people’s perception of Israeli politics and Israeli leadership? How are we as Reform Jews supposed to feel about Israel? Join Bret Stephens in conversation with Rabbi Dan Levin to explore these important questions as Israel celebrates its 75th year of independence.
What makes a human being – human?
In many ways – this is a question that answers itself.

Human beings ask questions.
Questioning is rooted in the very core of what makes us human. Ever notice that the basic questions of life are the shortest of words? Who? When? Where? Why? How?

For human beings – questions are primal. Asking and answering questions defines us – it’s how we live in the universe, it’s how we grow and learn, it’s how we seek to understand ourselves, our lives, our mission, and our purpose.

Jewish law evolves through a similar process – what we call שאלות ותשובות – She’elot U-Teshuvot: questions and answers. Judaism is a tradition of dialogue surrounding the posing and answering of questions, both mundane and sublime.

At the core of Jewish tradition is a simple question: “What am I supposed to do now?” Jewish law guides us in nearly every facet of our lives, directing us toward the right and good and holy in every possible situation.

What do I do if I find a lost object? How do I settle business disputes? What happens if someone damages my property?

Then there are questions of Jewish ritual life. How do I keep Shabbat and the Holy Days? Is this Kosher? Do I light the candles from left to right or right to left? When is Dad's Yahrtzeit? What symbols do we put on our seder plate?

Then there are other questions we encounter in the course of our lifetimes. What am I supposed to teach my children? How do I get married? How do I get divorced? What do I owe my parents as they age? What do I do when my friend gets sick? How do I heal from loss?

But beyond the questions of daily living are the essential questions that drive us. Some of those questions are rooted in existential curiosity: For whom am I responsible? When does life begin? What is my purpose? Do I have to believe in God? How do I know if I'm good?

Others may be about understanding ourselves in the world. What is the intersection between science and religion? What is my duty in confronting the changing climate? How do I profess a love for the State of Israel if I don’t always agree with what her government does? When should someone’s voice be silenced?

What makes us human is our capacity to consider essential questions – to wrestle with the challenges they pose and to grapple with the answers and what they mean for our lives. What makes us Jewish is how we weave the collective wisdom of our texts and tradition into the conversation.

This is why I’m so excited to begin a new initiative at Temple Beth El – a podcast we are titling: Essential Questions. Each episode of our podcast will pose an essential question and invite a conversation with remarkable people in the Jewish world and in our community to consider what those questions and answers mean.

I hope you will listen and share in the conversations surrounding the essential questions we all confront in the course of our lives. I look forward to learning together with you as we engage in this series of fascinating and intriguing dialogues.

Embedded in questions is the word “quest”. The process of questioning carries us forward on our individual and collective journeys in life, our quests for wisdom and understanding as we discern the paths we can follow in life that will lead us to meaning, righteousness, fulfillment, and peace.
My Essential Question that Keeps Me Up at Night

How do we ensure that Temple Beth El will remain financially healthy and continue to meet the many diverse needs of our congregants? This is the big question that is always on my mind when I wake up in the middle of the night and contemplate my job as President of Temple Beth El.

The first thing that I reflect upon is how fortunate we are to have an outstanding clergy team and exceptional staff, all of whom are 100% committed to making Temple Beth El the best it can be. Then I think about our Board of Trustees who are also 100% committed to the same. We have an organization filled with bright, inspirational leaders. We also have wonderful volunteers who work on committees, task forces and advisory groups offering their time, wisdom and dedication to our synagogue.

The next thing that I consider is the openness of these leaders to consider and listen to each other and, most importantly, all our congregants. We strive to be flexible and change course when need be. We pride ourselves on being innovative when solving problems. We certainly evidenced this when Virtual Beth El was created due to the pandemic. When we returned to in-person worship, we listened and created alternative worship experiences for all ages. Shabbat Unplugged is just one example of this.

We recognize that people’s lifestyles and communication delivery has changed also. We are excited to showcase a new podcast series with Rabbi Dan so you can hear and learn from our Rabbi while you are taking a walk, exercising, or driving.

Good is not good enough at Temple Beth El. Our new strategic plan is all about enriching people’s lives through exceptional Jewish experiences.

How do we ensure that Temple Beth El will remain financially healthy and continue to meet the many diverse needs of our congregants?

So, when I finish reflecting on all of this, I’m able to turn over and go back to sleep knowing that our temple’s future is very bright.

With the launch of Rabbi Dan Levin’s podcast, “Essential Questions”, we thought this was a great opportunity for a little podcast 101. Coined around 2004, the word “podcast” is a mashup of the words “iPod” and “broadcast”.

If you have never listened to a podcast, we encourage you to follow the directions to download “Essential Questions.” And if you are a regular listener to podcasts like I am, subscribing to Rabbi Levin’s podcast will enhance your library tremendously.

The most important 15 minutes of my morning has become the “Times of Israel Daily Briefing” podcast. I had the privilege of speaking to Amanda Borschel-Dan, the podcast’s producer and the voice I hear daily on my morning walk.

I spoke to her in Israel on the day Ben Gurion airport was shut down as part of the protests in Israel happening at the time of writing so she only had a few minutes.

I learned from her that the evolution of the podcast for “Times of Israel”, that provides up to date news from Israel in English, took time. The “Times of Israel” began as an online publication eleven years ago, and tried the podcast format about eight years ago, but it didn’t stick. Then, like many things, COVID brought TOI a new opportunity and a new format and an audience that now had time to listen. First weekly, the now daily briefing is for me and thousands of others, the most up to date news out of Israel. Because Israel is hours ahead, when I wake up, the podcast is there and ready for a listen. While she tries to plan the content a week ahead, Israel being Israel, leads to a lot of schedule changes.

That is one of the fabulous things about the nature of podcasts - Some deal with the most up-to-date information and others like Rabbi Levin, give us the luxury of delving into a topic that is timeless.

Ever since the biblical figure Ezra instituted the public reading of Torah not just on Shabbat but on the ancient market days of Monday and Thursday, the public exchange of information has been essential to the Jewish people, so Jewishly oriented podcasts make sense. In addition to “Essential Questions”, there are a huge variety of Jewish podcasts from “Verses”, a podcast that takes a song from a Broadway musical and matches it with a verse from Torah to give further insight into both the song and the text, “Unorthodox”, a quirky, conversational podcast on what they call “the news of the Jews” and “Streetwise Hebrew”, a concise and culturally abundant Hebrew lesson to name a few.

Congregant Dawn Graubert who runs her own broadcast feels like her work and podcasts at large provide the lesson that everyone has something to say. And if you let people speak their truth, positive things can come out of that. How lucky we are to add Rabbi Levin’s voice to our libraries with “Essential Questions”. Can’t wait for a listen!

STAFF PODCAST PICKS

An informal staff poll found Executive Director Steve Kaufman enjoying “Freakonomics Radio”. If you are interested in behavioral economics, how things work, social dynamics, business stuff, or a myriad of other interesting topics from crypto currency to the fine art market to the problems with colleges and universities to how airports work, this podcast is an incredible source of knowledge and thought-provoking questions and interviews.

Susan Stallone’s favorite is “The All In Podcast” at the intersection of business, politics and tech. Her favorite Jewish podcast is “Rise & Shine” with Adrienne Gold Davis. She finds the ten-minute positive message geared towards women, based in Jewish values and steeped in teachings from the Torah a great way to start the day.

Rabbi Amy Pessah loves Dr. Kate Bowler’s podcast “Everything Happens” because it is honest and real about how hard life is. Kate’s podcast is not about finding a quick-fix or telling us that everything happens for a reason. With a healthy dose of humor and irreverence, Kate, a Christian theologian and professor at Duke Divinity School, shows us what it means to be human, and how through God, faith, love, and human connection, we can move through our lives with greater ease.
First, you’ll want to decide how you want to listen. Do you want to listen through your phone while you’re on a walk? In the car on the way to work? On a desktop computer?

If you want to listen via your phone, you can either:
- Listen on a podcast app you are already familiar with, such as Spotify or Apple Podcasts
- Or download the Podbean app. Podbean is an app specifically for podcasts, and it is where Essential Questions with Rabbi Dan Levin is hosted!

Once you’ve chosen an app and you have an account, you will be able to search for “Essential Questions with Rabbi Dan Levin” and then follow our podcast! When you follow the podcast, on any of the apps listed above, you will be notified when we post new episodes so you can be among the first to listen.

If you want to listen on a desktop or laptop computer, you can go to tbeboca.org/essential-questions. All of our episodes are listed here, and you can listen whenever you want.

We hope you enjoy listening to Essential Questions with Rabbi Dan Levin!

The Essential Questions Podcast has been made possible by Temple Beth El’s Rabbi Dan Levin Jewish Ideas Incubator, committed to creativity and innovation in modern Jewish life.

Thank you to our production team: Amanda Brensel, Jake Harris, Elisa Lizt, Ray Maldonado, Jason Reasor and Susan Stallone. Special thanks to Cantorial Soloist Jake Harris for original music and Izabela Tenenboim for original artwork.

The Giving Tree

BY LAUREN GROSS AND JENNIE KREGER,
THE GIVING TREE CO-CHAIRS

Over this past year, while continuing to provide backpacks and school supplies to children in need, holiday gifts for families and seniors, and filling caseworker requests for basic necessities, The Giving Tree has also been busy transitioning its leadership team to the next generation of leaders! Lauren Gross and Jennie Kreger have been working hard as the new Giving Tree co-chairs, however they are not new to temple leadership! Lauren Gross has been a temple member for 12 years and has served as the VP of the Early Learning Center on TBE’s Board of Trustees. Jennie Kreger has been a temple member for over 40 years and has served as one of the founding presidents of Parenthood. Together, they plan on continuing the amazing work The Giving Tree does to help our community, one need, one life, one day at a time.

The Giving Tree was founded by Myra Singer z”l (of blessed memory) over 30 years ago. We can only hope to make the Singer family proud by continuing her legacy and finding a way to say “yes” to those in need while having fun along the way. Thank you to Leslie Steinberg, Judy Gordon, Linda Berger and Suzy Broad who have passed the leadership responsibilities to us. We are grateful for all the work you have done and all the wisdom you will continue to provide as Giving Tree Emeritae! Just as we have said “yes” to leading The Giving Tree, we hope you will help The Giving Tree thrive by saying “yes” and visiting www.thegivingtreeboca.org to find out how you can help make a difference in our community.

A week before being discharged from the IDF and getting married, Nir had no way of knowing the fight of his life was about to come — the battle of Bint Jbiel.

On Sunday, May 7 at 7:00 pm, you can hear his story of courage, faith, dreams and challenges that will inspire and amaze you.

The event is FREE. RSVP at tbeboca.org/battle
While May is a time when much of Boca Raton slows down as the temperature rises and the snowbirds head back north, here at the Beck Family Campus it is a time of great excitement and change. This is graduation month when we celebrate both the culmination of a child’s journey at the Beth El Early Learning Center and the beginning of their next chapter in elementary school. Many of the graduates have been in our care since infancy. We are blessed with the honor of watching them grow from babies into young children. Even those that join us as toddlers undergo a tremendous transformation in their time with us. For anyone that has had children, you understand the miraculous changes that occur during the first five years of life. We hope that the work we do each day serves to make a difference in each of their lives and sets them on a path of success, not only cognitively, but socially, emotionally, spiritually, and a sense of a strong Jewish identity.

On Sunday, May 21 this year, our amazing graduates will be welcomed onto the Bima at the Schaefer Family Campus for the first time to celebrate their PreK graduation. We look forward to seeing them again on that very same Bima for many milestones in the future. Mazel tov!!

We hope that the work we do each day serves to make a difference in each of their lives and sets them on a path of success.

When you belong to Sisterhood, you also belong to Women of Reform Judaism, an organization based in New York. It is the umbrella organization that is the guiding light and resource to all sisterhoods in Reform temples. You can learn more on their website www.wrj.org

TBE Sisterhood sent a representative to the recent WRJ Southeast Regional Conference in Tampa, Florida. Our region consists of Florida, Alabama, Georgia, and North & South Carolina. There were approximately 100 women, brimming with enthusiasm and open friendship.

This gathering of Sisterhood presidents was filled with activities that represented the Three Pillars that make up the Mission Statement of WRJ: Sisterhood, Spirituality, and Social Justice

The entire weekend was incredibly energizing and filled with new ideas, new connections, and a lot of time for spirituality. We celebrated Shabbat at a nearby temple followed the next morning with Torah Studies, Shabbat morning services, and then concluding with Havdalah. We filled bags with necessities (donated by all of the various Sisterhoods) for teens, children and families in need. In between, there were plenty of opportunities to network and attend workshops that reflected the convention’s tagline “Waves of Change – Oceans of Opportunity”. And of course, after the ceremonies for inducting the new Board Members, we had dinner with an incredible band (just imagine a roomful of women letting loose on the dancefloor – oy!)

Meanwhile, summer is right around the corner, but TBE Sisterhood won’t be taking a hiatus. We will continue to offer opportunities for you to gather with other like-minded women seeking a sense of belonging, spirituality, and social justice. This past year has been wonderfully successful in bringing our Temple women together. Let’s keep the momentum going! Watch your inbox for the Sunday update of Sisterhood events and be sure to join us. We’re waiting for you!

Brotherhood Update

We are all still amazed how wild and crazy the March Madness basketball tournament was. In the same spirit, the Brotherhood leveraged sports themes in many of the great programs in the first quarter of 2023. Thanks to the leadership of Larry Hotz, we united the community with a Superbowl Pool and a March Madness 50/50 bracket competition where the proceeds were split between lucky winners and important temple programming.

So, with football and basketball covered we needed to add baseball. No problem thanks to the efforts of Joe Gudema who arranged for Brotherhood members and guests to attend the Ballpark of the Palm Beaches and cheer on the Israeli National Team during a Major League exhibition game around the thrilling World Baseball Classic while enjoying great food, beverages and networking.

You can never get enough networking opportunities, so we reproduced a favorite February event at the Barrel of Monks, with craft beers, burgers the size of the Beck Family Chapel, and great chances to connect around professional and personal interests.

As we look forward to the final part of the 2022-2023 year, there is no loss of momentum!

Forget spectator sports, our Brotherhood is bringing “game” to a battle for, and across the ages. Look out Beth El Teens as the Brotherhood competes for bragging rights during the Softball Game of the Century on April 23 at Countess de Hoernle Park / Spanish River Athletic Facility Park 1000 Spanish River Blvd, Boca Raton, FL.

On a personal note, from Kevin, “It has been a real honor and privilege to serve as Co-President of the Brotherhood for the past two years in partnership with Jon Levin, his predecessor Carlos Romero, and the rest of the leadership team. We are proud of what we have accomplished and cherish the friendships that have developed along the way.”

What a night! From cocktails, a nail-biting finish for our FAU Owls, to dinner, a compelling program, desserts and dancing, it is our sincerest hope that the night met and even exceeded your expectations.

Your most generous support of the Beth El Bash surpassed our goals for the evening... we were able to exceed an ambitious goal by over $250,000! That is simply amazing. YOU are simply amazing.

Thank you again to all our incredible sponsors, event committee, attendees and substantial contributors to the fundraising efforts during the evening.

Your generous support for the Beth El Bash will enable us to complete the refurbishment of our sacred space, the Rabbi Merle E. Singer Sanctuary. Our plans for our renovations are underway, and we look forward to the summer of 2024 when we will commence our renovation work. We look forward to welcoming you and celebrating many milestones, life-cycle events and occasions in our refurbished sanctuary.

The Beth El Mausoleum, located at Temple Beth El of Boca Raton, is unique. Some synagogues have in-ground cemeteries within or adjacent to their synagogue property and others own or use a portion of a community mausoleum with other congregations. But, as far as we know, the Beth El Mausoleum is the only mausoleum on synagogue property in the United States.

The idea for the Mausoleum was conceived in 1994 by Rabbi Emeritus Merle Singer and Temple Board Member Alvin Cohen. They envisioned a place where members of Temple Beth El could share a final resting place, something to provide care and comfort to our members and to the greater Jewish community. State and local law did not permit the use, but Rabbi Singer and Mr. Cohen felt that there should be an alternative. They drove to Tallahassee and successfully came to an agreement with the Florida legislature to allow it to be built on the Temple property.

Temple Beth El is a thriving Reform congregational community. It has grown to more than 1800 member households. It is renowned for clergy, innovative programming, spirituality, and outreach to its members. Its Mausoleum is an integral part of the totality of life cycle events that take place at Temple Beth El. Early on the question of Jewish burial in a Mausoleum, as opposed to in-ground, was raised. Rabbi Dan Levin notes the in-ground ritual was a European tradition but that “our Mausoleum embraces the Reform tradition of respecting personal choice especially as it relates to end-of-life traditions.”

Phases 1 and 2 are single story open air buildings housing crypts and niches and were completed in the mid-1990s with approximately 700 crypts. Phase 3, a 2-story building with crypts and niches inside air-conditioned space and on the outside walls, contains 1944 crypts along with niches. Although the Beth El Mausoleum was originally built for Temple members, the wider Boca Raton Jewish community now comprises a significant number of clients. Non-members who purchase space in the Mausoleum receive a complimentary one-year membership, and many who did not anticipate being members of a synagogue find themselves connected with Temple Beth El and renew their membership.

Because of the increasing demand for Jewish end-of-life locations, Phase 4 is now in the planning stage and will likely break ground in 2024. Pre-sales will start later this year. Phase 4, slightly bigger than Phase 3, will have a wide array of crypts and niches.

Beth El Mausoleum is the final resting place for those in our congregational community and the wider Jewish community. It completes the circle of life events that take place at Temple Beth El. Those who are interred in the Mausoleum know they are surrounded by their loved ones, their fellow congregants, and the embrace of the surrounding Jewish community for all time.
Beth El Mausoleum in Boca Raton welcomes you and your loved ones to a tranquil place, rooted in Jewish community and filled with the warmth of tradition. If you, a friend or family member have been considering making plans for the future, our clergy and staff are here to help guide you. Serving the needs of our Temple Beth El congregation and the greater Jewish community of South Florida, the Beth El Mausoleum is privately owned and on the grounds of Temple Beth El, providing the highest standards of quality care.
